Answers transfer bids ( week 2 )

- 1) souths last bid will be 3NT
- 2) souths last bid will be 4H
- 3) souths last bid will be 2NT ie the tricky hand for basic Acol
- 4) norths last bid will be 4Sp
- 5) norths last bid will be 4H (NB not 3H)
- 6) N S

  1NT-----2H
  2S-----3NT
  Pass
- 7) 2NT -----3H ie a transfer to spades
- 8) 2NT-----3D (transfer to hearts) 3H-----3NT 4H
- 9) First thing to notice (or realise) is partner doesn't like hearts (they played the 4). So partner hasn't the Ace or J hearts. Ho hum. We need to switch. (because declarer has AJx and Was trying a fast one –the Bath Coup).

Switch to what though?

The 8 diamonds a putting the frightners on type of lead may produce unexpected benefits.

10)not too hard. Cash A + K diamonds. If everyone follows the suit breaks and we cash the Q diamonds and go to dummy to play the winning 8 + 7 diamonds.

The only problem would be if on the K diamonds someone showed out.

Now you will neeed to try your chances in clubs. Finesse the Jack of clubs.

If that won return to hand ( with say the Ace hearts) and finesse the Q clubs . Now you have 10 tricks AND ( if the clubs "behave" ) you will make 12 tricks 11)(i) ok this is expert stuff. Are you ready?

Win Ace hearts,;; draw the opponents trumps (ie A + K spades);;;cash the A+ K + Q diamonds (eliminating the side suit);;; lead a small heart to the J WHICH THE OPPONENTS WIN.

Now the opponent on lead (the original leader) (is endplayed forced to lead a club or give a ruff and discard).

ii) The correct play is to win the Ace hearts and lead a heart back (to create a void in hearts in dummy); as soon as possible ruff a heart in dummy. Now 10 tricks are assured.
